This process has helped me develop relationships with parents that matter. I couldn't believe one of the parents actually called me a couple weeks after we talked to proactively check in. I used Lisa's Phone Call Roadmap which taught me how to gently coach parents to be more engaged with their child's education.

A month after this training I have parents posting on Facebook how happy they are with the strategies we have implemented since the Parent Engagement Lab. It feels good. It's been money well spent for my whole staff to attend and implement the strategies school-wide. Lisa's coaching makes it stick.
